

Monongahela National Forest makes history providing two Christmas trees to the Nation

ELKINS W.Va. (Hinton News) - This year Monongahela National Forest had the honor of providing Christmas trees to two iconic federal buildings in Washington, D.C. – the U.S. Capitol and the White House.

A 40-foot Norway spruce was delivered to the White House Tuesday, Nov. 14 to serve as the 2023 National Christmas Tree in collaboration with the National Park Service. This is the first time the USDA Forest Service and National Park Service has partnered to provide the National Christmas Tree at the White House. The Norway spruce was harvested from the Cheat-Potomac Ranger District in Parsons, West Va., Nov. 13.

The tree is located on the Ellipse at The White House and President's Park and can be viewed by the public beginning December 2. The National Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony will take place November 30 in President's Park in Washington, D.C. Tickets are required. Learn more at the National Park Service's website.

Monongahela National Forest also delivered the U.S. Capitol Christmas Tree, a 63-foot Norway spruce, to the U.S. Capitol this Friday, Nov. 17, wrapping up a two-week tour around West Virginia and surrounding states. The tree was harvested from the Greenbrier Ranger District in Randolph County Nov. 1.

Each year a different national forest provides what is known as the People's Tree, a tradition since 1970. The U.S. Capitol tree lighting ceremony is scheduled for November 28 at 5 p.m. at the U.S. Capitol. Tickets are not required, and it is open to the public. Learn more about the history of the ceremony at the Architect of the Capitol's website.

"Supplying these Christmas Trees to the White House and the U.S. Capitol marks a significant moment for Monongahela National Forest and we are honored for these trees be featured in our nation's most iconic holiday displays," said Forest Supervisor Shawn Cochran. "Christmas trees, adorned with the spirit of the state of West Virginia and Monongahela National Forest, will serve as a symbol of unity and joy during the holiday season."

The Grace Of God

by Gene Taylor

Some have erroneously concluded from Romans 6:14-15 that we are "not under law but under grace" and that law and grace are mutually exclusive. However, the fact we are under grace does not mean we are not subject to law and that it is not essential for us to keep divine law.

We are subject to law from God. The teaching of Christ is called "law" (1 Cor. 9:21; 1 John 3:4; Isa. 2:1-3). We are required to obey that law (1 John 3:4; 2 Tim. 3:16-17; John 4:24; 1 Pet. 4:11). Whenever God has spoken to man or given a law, He has expected strict obedience and the utmost respect for His word (Deut. 4:2; Lev. 10:1-2; Rev. 22:18-19).

Grace does not mean we are not subject to law, rather, it means that we have a means of forgiveness when we violate that law, if we meet the divine conditions. The teaching of the apostle Paul in Romans 6:14-15 is that we are not under a system of mere law without grace as a means of justification. Depending on mere law would require perfect law-keeping for justification. Such would make one a legalist. Our justification is by grace through faith.

Though salvation is by grace (Eph. 2:8), it is not by grace alone. Some teach otherwise: "We believe the scriptures teach that the salvation of sinners is wholly by grace" (Standard Manual for Baptist Churches, ch. 8, art. 4). Actually, one is saved by nothing alone. The many factors of salvation include: faith (Rom. 5:1); repentance (Acts 11:18); blood (Rom. 5:9-10); works (Jas. 2:24); baptism (1 Pet. 3:21); the gospel (Rom. 1:16); confession (1 John 4:2); and grace (Eph. 2:8-9).

Salvation by grace is through the teaching of the gospel, God's "power unto salvation" (Rom. 1:16). It is called "the word of His grace" (Acts 14:3) and "the gospel of the grace of God" (Acts 20:24). It is by the gospel that the kindness of God redeems man and provides him all spiritual blessings. The word is the medium of His grace (Titus 2:11-12). The word of His grace is able to build up and strengthen the Christian so that he might grow in Christ, grow unto salvation (Acts 20:32; 1 Pet. 2:1-2).

But God's grace is conditional. It is conditioned upon obedient faith made perfect by works (Eph. 2:8-9; Rom. 5:1-2; Jas. 2:17-26; Matt. 7:21). The obedient works upon which salvation is conditioned do not nullify grace for they do not earn salvation. The examples of Naaman (2 Kings 5) and the blind man (John 9:6-7) show that these gifts were given by grace but conditions had to be met to receive them.

A Peek into Summers County’s Past: The Greenbrier

William Jones

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS W.Va. (Hinton News) - Editor's note: Each week, William Jones, a local history collector, discusses pieces from his collection and their historical significance. In this edition of A peek into Summers County's Past, Jones talks about a connection between The Greenbrier Resort and Summers County.

Since Veterans Day was Nov. 11, I felt compelled to write about something military-related to Summers County. The Greenbrier is over 30 miles from the county line but, oddly enough, has incidental ties to it. First, I will briefly delve into the over two centuries of this resort in White Sulphur Springs history.

The Greenbrier's began in 1778 when the first guests came to White Sulphur Springs to partake of the waters thought to have medicinal properties and restore their health. By the time the 1830's rolled around The Greenbrier was already booming and had guests from every part of life. This included judges, lawyers, publishers, diplomats, planters, shopkeepers to well-known politicians of the day.

Five sitting presidents had traveled and stayed at The Greenbrier by the 1860s. The resort could only be reached by way of stagecoach, and it was only the cottages at that time. Several of which are still in use today. The resort's reputation as a prominent high-season meeting place of some of the nation's top socialites was set before the Civil War.

The mid to late 1800s brought about a greater influx of guests after the construction of the C&O Railroad opened the resort's doors to the nation. Its ability to handle such an increase of guests from the newly formed railroad was made feasible by the addition of "The Old White" in 1858. It soon became the leading social destination of America after this very large hotel was completed in addition to the existing cottages. It was capable of accommodating upwards of 1,800 guests in a season.

In 1910, the C&O Railway acquired the property and the "new" Greenbrier Hotel. It opened on Oct. 1, 1913. The Old White golf course was then redesigned in 1914. Typical of the "roaring 20s," business boomed, and thousands of guests came from all of the largest cities around the country by rail. The Greenbrier's distinction as a golf destination was further increased when Sam Snead, a professional golfer was employed by The Greenbrier in 1936.

The 1940s brought a new chapter to The Greenbrier when the U.S. Army acquired the hotel after the U.S. State Department had leased the hotel complex for seven months to house diplomats from various countries. The U.S. Army purchased the hotel after 1941 and turned it into a 2,000-bed hospital to be used by soldiers who were injured in WWII. Its name was Ashford General Hospital. 24,148 soldiers were admitted and treated during its four years of operation as a war hospital.

I am sure there were many others from Summers County, but one of these soldiers was Elmo Davis from Ballengee. The locals like my grandfather Bernard Thompson, who had known him since they were children always referred to Davis as "Elmo". Davis is best known for his store that he ran near Oak Grove Church. The store had a long history of owners, Its first owner was a man by the name of L.C. "Losee" Davis. The date of construction is not known. It was then run by Whitlock who long practiced the bartering system with butter and eggs provided by the women of the community. Then came Frank and Bonnie Nelson who later owned and ran what is now The John Henry Museum in Talcott. It was later owned by Buddy Light and run by his brother Jack. Light sold it to Elmo and Gertie Davis who carried on its operation for many years.

Davis's parents were Lomer and Allie Davis. Elmo spent quite a long time in the hospital. He would hitchhike back to Ballengee, where he would stay until he was called back for yet another surgery to be performed. He received new and cutting-edge surgery, unheard of in the 1940s in White Sulphur Springs. He had a bone missing in his arm after an injury he received in the service. Bone from his leg was "grafted" in his arm. He had to make numerous trips and stays at Ashford for this procedure to be completed. John Hendricks of Ballengee, who is 85 now and is Elmo's nephew recently told me that as a child he would go to the store to get his hair cut for just a "pennies on the dollar." Storekeepers during that time wore many hats in small communities, in this case, the local barber.

Following the war ownership of The Greenbrier was returned to the railroad, Dorthy Draper, who was known for her lively colors, excessive patterns, lavish wallpapers, spectacular furnishings and marble floors during the time was hired to revamp the look and feel of the hotel. Soon, the "Draper Style," as it became known, was carried on by her successor, Carleton Varney, until he passed away in 2022. I had the great pleasure of meeting Mr Varney in 2014 when my mother and I were organizing The John Henry Museum Restoration Gala. We had a little chat on the street outside of a shop in Lewisburg, which led to him mailing me four bottles of his home fragrance to be auctioned off in the silent auction we were holding.

The first photo in this series is of the store building, as it always looked when I was growing up and was torn down in 2016. I remember always admiring this old building, wondering what was inside of it and the vintage gas pumps that stood in front of it. After it was torn down the Ballengee Farm Club and Neighborhood Association, Inc., which I am a member of built a little community park where the building had stood.

Next is the antique circa 1900 crock jug with a stopper that reads "White Sulphur Springs West Virginia" in Old English font. There are many artifacts from The Greenbrier but in all of my decades of "willing and dealing" in antiques and local memorabilia I had never seen one of these. It was used to promote the water from the spring that it held. The commemorative coin in the holder is a 1938 Anniversary Metal of Greenbrier County. It reads, "Greenbrier County 160th Anniversary 1778 - 1938". It was dug up by Gemma Leftwich in her yard on James Street in Hinton in the 1990s. It has an image of The Greenbrier reverse stamped on the back side of it. You can not help but wonder how it ended up in Hinton in the 1930s.

The stereoview card is a rare pre-June 20, 1863 card depicting the famous spring house at The Greenbrier. I say pre because the card says, "White Sulphur Springs, Va." So this card is from when Greenbrier County was still part of Virginia before breaking away when West Virginia was formed on June 20, 1863. The little spoons and fork you see here have the famous spring house stamped on the handle and "The Greenbrier" stamped on the reverse of the handles. My grandmother, Bea Thompson, acquired them while working there in the 1940s.

All sides of my family have a long history of having been employed at The Greenbrier from the 1900s to the present. Many of them were residents of Summers County. I have a few other artifacts from The Greenbrier and see others pop up from time to time, but the ones I am showing here are my favorite and certainly the oldest I have seen. I have never run across anything else like the card that predates West Virginia becoming a state.

Sweet Springs Turnpike Trail and Sweet Springs Resort Park update

SWEET SPRINGS, WV (Hinton News) - The Sweet Springs Turnpike Trail is moving forward week by week. This past week the gate was set to ensure the fencing stays secure, signs have been made and some placed, with more to be placed this week, and the continuation of the trail is still moving forward towards the final destination - the top of Peter's Mountain.

A tree fell across the trail, and within 48 hours, the volunteer maintenance team had the tree cleared. The Sweet Springs Turnpike Trail is free to anyone wanting to enjoy the exercise, the views and the experience of hiking where famous people used to travel. Please sign in at the office (a sign-in sheet is on the porch) before you begin your hike and sign out when you return. This is for safety reasons. Signs direct you where to go from there.

The Sweet Springs Resort Park has almost completed the tear-down of a building that was not repairable and kept much of the inside timbers to use for restoration purposes. Some of the timbers were incredible hand-hewn timbers ranging in various sizes from four-by-four to four-by-six, and up, and were pegged in place. Parts are being ordered to repair the sewer plant, and once completed, water will be restored to the Jeffersonian Hotel. Internet is being placed in the Historic Lewis House Bed & Breakfast for the guests that wish to use internet services and the Jeffersonian Hotel will have more internet as well.

The Sweet Springs Watershed Association is moving right along. More meetings and forums are planned - grant applications will be submitted to help protect the spring areas from damage, maintenance and media genres.

NOTE: To everyone who volunteered at Sweet Springs in 2023 - The Annual Volunteer Christmas Brunch will be held on Saturday, Dec. 16, at 11 a.m. The Park will provide all paper products and meats. Bring your favorite dish, exchange recipes, etc. There will be games and fun.
