A New Mission: How a Former Officer Turned a Medical Crisis Into a Culinary Success

Brad McDaniel in front of Hawg Jaw BBQ

Hinton News

HINTON, W.Va. (Hinton News) - If you love a good comeback story and good food, you need to try Hawg Jaws BBQ on the Hinton bypass.

Brad McDaniel never thought he would be a restaurant owner. Having been in law enforcement for over 20 years, McDaniel believed that was his career path. Then a medical emergency changed everything. On August 25, 2025, McDaniel suffered a stroke. "It left me with a few deficits," McDaniel said.

A look at the front of the restaurant

"I've recovered pretty well, but I don't want to do anything that's not safe for me or other people." At this point, McDaniel decided to file for medical retirement. During his recovery time, McDaniel said he sought guidance from God on what to do next. "I thought, well, I love to cook, and everyone in my family told me to try a restaurant."

McDaniel said he came across the building Hawg Jaws is in now, and the man who owned it made him an offer he couldn't refuse. "So I've been telling everyone that God told me to do this, but me and my wife have put a lot of work into it. I just feel like that's what I've been led to do, and it's working out," McDaniel stated.

McDaniel said he was glad for all the feedback they were receiving, both the good and bad. "With every new business, there are kinks to be worked out, especially with new business owners. I had never spent one day working in food service. Even when I was a teenager, I never worked at McDonald's, Wendy's, or anything like that. I knew nothing about the restaurant business," McDaniel told in a sharing of total honesty.

He went on to say that there were some things to work out when he first opened, and that over the past three weeks, he's hired the right people and the right number of them. "Now things are running pretty well."

McDaniel said one of the initial complaints was the long wait for food. He said at the grand opening, there were only two people in the kitchen. Since then, he's hired four additional kitchen staff. "Getting food out is not an issue anymore," McDaniel said. He's hired three teenagers and multiple adults to staff the restaurant. He says he was fortunate to pick up several people displaced by the closing of Kirk's. McDaniel explained that he thinks it's sad the community lost Kirk's, but feels fortunate to have experienced staff that can now help train new hires.

McDaniel is obviously passionate about what he does, and he comes through when he talks about his love of smoking meats and how he chose barbecue. "I have a big family, and I cook often. The smoker is probably my go-to way of cooking. I have a buddy from North Carolina that I learned how to do Carolina barbecue from. I came up with a few recipes over the years, and that's how I picked barbecue." McDaniel also said that barbecue is his favorite food and that there's no other restaurant like his. It gives the community a good home-style barbecue option.

If this sounds like something you want to try, stop by Hawg Jaws BBQ on the Hinton bypass during regular business hours.

A Peek into Summers County's Past: When a Hotel Became A Women's Prison

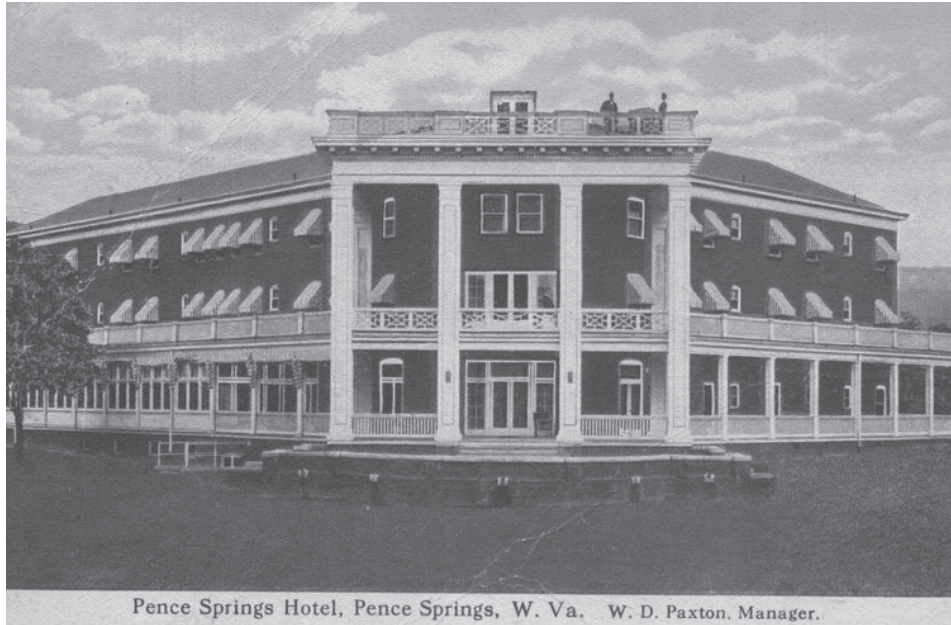

William Jones
Hinton News

PENCE SPRINGS, W.Va. (Hinton News) - I have written about the Pence Springs Hotel on numerous occasions. This time, I will delve a little further into its history as the "West Virginia Prison for Women." During the 1940s, the state of West Virginia allocated $45,000 to purchase and convert the Pence Springs Hotel property that had been closed since the Great Depression.

At that time, female prisoners were housed at the Moundsville Penitentiary, a maximum security prison for men. In 1947, after the state had completed the conversion of the facility into a women's prison, two busloads of women and guards left Moundsville for Pence Springs. One of the buses wrecked along the way, and all of the women had to crowd on one bus to finish the venture to their new "home."

After arriving, the prisoners found a much different environment than what they had been used to in Moundsville. All windows in the original hotel had bars installed over them. And round holes were cut in the room doors. They had flaps installed over them on the hallway side so the guards could flip them over and check on the inmates by looking into the room. An interesting note about the time Ashby Berkley converted the prison back into a hotel.

He moved the flaps to the inside of the rooms so the guests could flip them back and look out into the hall. Just a quirky element from the prison days he repurposed for hotel guests.

The West Virginia Prison for Women closed in 1985 due to the building's deterioration and the cost of repairs. The inmates were transferred to Pruntytown Correctional Center in Taylor County. The black-and-white photo you see here was taken during the property's days as a prison in 1952.

I am not sure of the exact reason for this gathering, but I have been told that St Patrick Catholic Church in Hinton brought the children of Summers County to tour the prison. This photo was taken on the lawn near the bank that leads over the hill to the flea market. There is a very unusual aspect to this photo!

It appears the sunroom is in the background; in this case, it is on the right side of the building. There is one problem with this: the sunroom is on the left wing of the building,

Jesus, The Way Out Of Religious Confusion

(Part 2)

by Mark A. Copeland

https://executableoutlines.com/topical_series/jesus-the-way-guide/jtw_01.html

Last week, we began considering the way Jesus can lead us out of religious confusion. Notice Jesus' own example of how this can be done in the religious climate of His day...

THE EXAMPLE JESUS HAS SET FOR US

When Jesus came to this earth, the Israelites were living under the Law of God as given by Moses. In that law, God had not made any provision for the division of His people into religious sects or parties. Yet, by the time of Jesus, the Jews had formed several distinct religious parties:

- Pharisees (somewhat conservative)
- Sadducees (very liberal, the "modernists" of their day)
- Essenes (radical isolationists)
- Herodians, Zealots (political religionists)

It was assumed that all who were serious about religion would be associated with one of these groups.

To which of these groups did Jesus belong? He belonged to none of these groups! Instead, He maintained a "non-sectarian" relationship with God to the very end. As an Israelite, living at a time when the Law of Moses was still in effect, He was simply an "Israelite." In addition, He encouraged all to live by the Law while it was still in effect:

"Do not think that I came to destroy the Law or the Prophets. I did not come to destroy but to fulfill. For assuredly, I say to you, till heaven and earth pass away, one jot or one tittle will by no means pass from the law till all is fulfilled. Whoever therefore breaks one of the least of these commandments, and teaches men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever does and teaches them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. For I say to you, that unless your righteousness exceeds the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven." (Matthew 5:17-20)

In other words, He encouraged all to simply be what the Law of Moses intended them to be ("Israelites").

What would Jesus be today, if He were on earth? Would He be a Baptist, or Catholic, or Presbyterian, or Methodist, etc.? If He was simply an Israelite then, would He not simply be a "Christian" today? That was certainly what His disciples came to be called:

And the disciples were first called Christians in Antioch. (Acts 11:26)

The word "called" in the Greek suggests that it was a name given by God Himself; perhaps the "new name" foretold by Isaiah in Isaiah 62:2? In any case, the example Jesus has set for us is clear: just be what God originally intended under the Law which is in effect. Since in the New Testament (the "law of Christ" cf. 1 Corinthians 9:21) the disciples of Christ were called "Christians," so we should be!

Not only should we be content with being "called" Christians, we should also be concerned with "just being Christians." Nothing more, nothing less! But how can we be sure that we are simply Christians, members of the church we read about in the New Testament?

Next week, we will consider what the Bible tells us about the Lord's church.

Musings From Memory Lane: Here and There

Lisa Abshire
Hinton News

As I sit here and gaze out the window at all the life coming back after winter, I am both in the here and now but also in the past. In my mind's eye, I see myself as a little girl running about the same yard picking all the purple flowers. Clumsy young hands would mainly be pulling the head off the stem, but be deliriously happy. I would then hand them off to my mom, who would take them and press them in a big, heavy book to have forever.

My Dad would drive me and Mom all over the back roads. Mom would gather polk greens and wild lettuce, and I would have Dad pick wild phlox for me. When we would get back home, Mom would put the flowers in water. She would clean the greens and cook them that night for supper, along with a pot of brown beans and homemade biscuits. Mom loved to fry up either bacon or sausage with this meal.

My mom enjoyed nothing better than a good country meal shared with family. I think, perhaps as one grows older, that is one of the things missed most. There's no home to run to anymore when you need a comfort meal or a dose of motherly love. There's no Daddy to pick you flowers that magically make everything better.

You see, those flowers my Dad picked were better than any store-bought bouquet in my eyes. They were picked with love, and that's what made them extra beautiful. To this day, I see those purple flowers and think of my Dad.

So often those memories seem more real to me than the present I'm living in now. I see the same flowers growing, and while they're still beautiful, I view them through the eyes of melancholy. My mom would always put them in a vase so we could admire their beauty around the house. If I try hard enough, I can hear the happy giggles floating on the wind. Life pulls me back to the present, and I must leave the memories behind for now. Life goes on, and it's a good life. I keep the memories ever at the forefront, living both here and there.

which was closed in when the building was completed in 1918. There was never a sunroom on the right side!

This was done from a "flopped negative". Meaning "when a photographic negative is flipped backward (emulsion side up instead of emulsion side down) during printing or exposure to purposely reverse the image horizontally, it is commonly called a flopped negative or a flopped image."

I am including an early postcard of the hotel. In this case, the card was used by the hotel for advertising in 1918, when it first opened. As you can see, the sunroom is on the left, and the right side is an open porch, just as it is today. Dear Recycle Lady

Dear Recycle Lady,

What is the Global Organic Textile Standard? A New Classification

Dear A New Classification,

Global Organic Textile Standard or GOTS spells out the environmental and toxicological criteria that organic products must meet to be certified organic. Only textile products that contain a minimum of 70% organic fibers and chemicals that meet certain environmental and toxicological criteria can become GOTS certified. The use of toxic chemicals for processing is prohibited, as is child labor. There are also strong labor provisions. GOTS protects the workers, the consumers, and the environment. For more information, Google Global Organic Textile Products, Inc.

Dear Recycle Lady,

Today, when I pulled the bag out of a box of crackers, it looked like it was made of a very shiny foil. Yet the bag didn't exactly look like aluminum foil. How can I tell if the bag is made of aluminum foil? Stumped

Dear Stumped, There is a very simple test to determine if your shiny bag is made of aluminum foil. Crinkle or roll it up into a ball, then release the pressure on it. If the bag is made of aluminum foil, it will remain in the ball that you just made, and it is recyclable, but not locally. If the bag is made of a shiny metallic film, it will pop back or unfold and thus is not recyclable. There are several kinds of shiny paper, some of which can be recycled and others that cannot. For example, glossy magazine covers can be recycled, but foil-coated papers used for wrapping chocolate bars can't. The challenge for recycling shiny paper is the cost of sorting and processing. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that the cost per ton of recycling mixed paper is approximately $50 per ton, whereas the cost to recycle shiny paper is over $100 per ton. AI-powered systems are now being used to analyze the composition of shiny paper, predict machine performance, and adjust processing conditions. They are also working toward improving efficiency and reducing the waste of shiny paper. Scientists are working on designing new materials to replace the metallic coatings found on shiny papers. Potential alternatives to the metallic coating are silicon-based coatings and recycled metal-infused compounds.

Dear Recycle Lady,

Why is methane considered a pollutant? I read that stronger standards are needed for methane emissions. Wondering Reader

Dear Wondering Reader,

Methane is a colorless, odorless, transparent, flammable gas that occurs naturally underground and under the seafloor. It is found in the environment in coal, oil, and natural gas deposits. Methane is a potent greenhouse gas that enters the atmosphere largely due to human activities. It is produced by the decay- ing and breaking down of organic materials that occur, for example, in landfills. At a low level, methane is non-toxic and doesn't pose a threat to our health. It is the main component of natural gas and is widely used in homes, businesses and factories all over the world. It is used to fuel water heaters, furnaces, stoves, and clothes dryers. However, according to Wikipedia, methane is responsible for approximately 30% of the rise in global temperatures as it gradually converts into carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. Jon Soldstein, EDF methane policy expert, stated that well-designed methane standards are protective of the earth and that the fastest way to slow climate change is to cut methane pollution.

Interesting Information: Sponges stay rooted in place, but they have clever defenses. Many produce chemicals that taste bad or are toxic to predators. Their bodies can contain tiny, needle-like structures called spicules that make them quite uncomfortable to eat. Some species even use a "sneezing" response, forcefully expelling water to blast away potential threats. (fto.com)

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF WEST VIRGINIA CHARLESTON

CASE NO. 26-0130-E-CN APPALACHIAN POWER COMPANY and WHEELING POWER COMPANY, public utilities.

Application for Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to Construct a Mechanical Draft Cooling Tower at the Mitchell Power Plant

NOTICE OF FILING

On February 18, 2026, Appalachian Power Company and Wheeling Power Company (jointly, the Companies) filed a verified Application for Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to Construct a Mechanical Draft Cooling Tower at the Mitchell Power Plant pursuant to W. Va. Code § 24-2-11. In order to address the structural needs of the Unit 2 Cooling Tower at the Mitchell Power Plant located near Moundsville, West Virginia, and to ensure the continued operation of that plant for the benefit of their customers, the Companies intend to construct a new mechanical draft cooling tower, replacing the existing Unit 2 Cooling Tower, and then partially demolish the existing Unit 2 Cooling Tower. The need for the proposed construction project, and a more detailed description of the project, are set forth in the Companies' Application and the witness testimony provided therewith.

The West Virginia jurisdictional share of the cost of the proposed construction project is currently estimated at approximately $95.5 million and is proposed to be recovered through the Companies' Construction Surcharge. If the project is approved as proposed, it would result in an annual increase in revenue of $15,029,710 (a 0.76% increase), and the impact on an average monthly bill by customer category will be as follows:

| | (%) Increase/ (Decrease) | (%) Increase/ (Decrease) |
|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| Residential | $1.22 | 0.69% |
| Commercial | $3.27 | 0.69% |
| Industrial | $2,870.17 | 0.90% |
| Special Contract ¹ | $5,377.13 | 0.87% |
| Other | $0.01 | 0.02% |

The increases shown are based on averages of all customers in the indicated class. Each class may receive an increase or decrease greater or less than stated here. Individual customers may receive increases that are greater or less than average. Furthermore, the requested rates and charges are only a proposal and are subject to change (increases or decreases) by the Public Service Commission in its review of this filing. Any increase in rates and charges will not become effective until authorized and approved by the Commission. If a hearing is scheduled, notice will be given of the time and place of the hearing.

Black Bears Stay Hungry, Secure Your Food Sources

HINTON, W.Va. (Hinton News) - Coming face-to-face with a black bear can be rather intimidating, especially if your basic instincts kick in--such as running or screaming--which would be a natural reaction.

According to the West Virginia DNR website, however, you can avoid those interactions by following a few simple, but sometimes forgetful, set of rules.

During the summer months, especially May and June, black bears tend to be out and about a little more than usual as they migrate from their dens out into the wilderness. Foods that humans eat are usually higher in calories than natural foods and because of that fact, black bears will make their way to neighborhoods and other areas where a lot of people tend to be.

Black bears don't want much trouble--unless of course the person starts the trouble--as they typically are looking for food, and also typically, they want what we want, high-calorie food. Securing trash cans, fire pits, outbuildings, and bird feeders are essential to keep the bears where they belong and free from your front porch.

Black Bears like to eat a variety of items, including bird seed, trash, dog and cat food, and other animals like chickens.

Maybe my giving out tips on how to keep the bears away is a tad hypocritical, as I have about 40-50 chickens in my backyard 24/7. Oh well, they aren't mine, but still.

Here are some tips from the WVDNR to remember during those summer months:

Take down bird feeders before mid-March.

Store trash in a secure area until the morning of pickup.

Remove pet food and bowls after feeding.

Clean grills after each use and store them in a secure area.

It's definitely easier said than done, but if you do walk around the house and come toe-to-toe with a huge black bear, don't panic. Try and remember to be still and think they are only hungry and looking for a nice hot meal. If you charge toward them with a stick or a bat, the bear will feel inclined to defend itself.

So, let's avoid that and follow these WVDNR tips straight from their website:

Give it space - Never approach a bear, even if it seems uninterested in you.

Back away slowly - Running can trigger a chase instinct.

Make yourself

known - Wave your arms and shout, "Hey bear!"

Use bear spray if necessary - If the bear keeps approaching, be ready.

Fight back if attacked - In the rare case of a black bear attack, don't play dead--fight aggressively.

If you do see a bear from inside your house or find evidence outside that one may be creeping around when no one is watching, alert your neighbors and others that may come around often. Refer them to this story or the WVDNR website/Facebook page.

Now, share this so we all can feel better and more confident when one of those bears comes sniffing around for our weekend leftovers.
